7.6 Conflicts of Interest

Artists (or members of their immediate families or business partners) serving as members of the Arts Commission may not be commissioned under, or receive any direct financial benefit from, any County public art project during the term of their tenure on the Commission. This restriction shall extend for a period of one year following Commission membership and shall extend indefinitely for any specific projects which were reviewed or otherwise acted upon during the artist's membership on the Commission. An artist serving on an Artist Selection Panel may not be considered for that project, but may be eligible for other projects. Members of the Artist Selection Panels must declare any conflict of interest and abstain from voting if a conflict of interest arises.

8.0 SELECTION OF ARTISTS

Selecting the “appropriate” artist, whether to create a discreet artwork or to participate in a design collaboration, is the single most important decision in the public art process. Special care must be taken in all aspects of artist selection in order to ensure the best possible public art project, taking into account the goals of the project, the community served, the nature of the site, and the other members of the design team.

8.1 Eligibility Requirements: for each project will be established by the Arts Commission.

8.1.1 Artists will be selected on the basis of their qualification(s) as demonstrated by past work, appropriateness of the proposal to the particular project and site, and its probability of successful completion. During the artist recruitment and selection process every effort will be made to include recruitment of Santa Cruz County-based artists.

8.1.2 Selection of artists will be without regard or discrimination against applicant for employment because of race, color, religion, national origin, ancestry, physical or mental disability, medical condition, marital status, sex, sexual orientation, age (over 40), veteran status, or any other non-merit factor.

8.1.3 Selections will involve commissioned work by living artists. In general, the purchase of existing works will not be considered, unless there are extraordinary circumstances that make this approach advisable for a particular project.

8.1.4 In the selection of the artist, it is a goal to provide for as broad a representation of different artists and art forms as possible, as well as to provide public art that reflects the County's cultural diversity.

8.2 Selection of Artists

The method of selection shall be an open competition. During an open competition any artist may submit credentials or proposals, subject to any requirements established by the art selection panel. Calls for Artists will be sufficiently detailed to permit artists to determine whether their work is appropriate to the project under consideration. Requests for proposals will be issued announcing the open competition via press releases, social media posts, POSCS website, and other methods. In addition, lists will be kept and used for artists wishing to be informed of such opportunities. Local organizations and educational institutions such as Arts Council Santa Cruz County, the Museum of Art and History, the Santa Cruz Art League, Mountain Arts Center, and Pajaro Valley Arts will be informed and encouraged to notify their memberships and students of such competitions. In the artist selection process, no funds will be expended to provide travel expenses for artists submitting proposals.

8.3 Criteria for Selection of Artists or Artworks.

- 8.3.1 Quality - the highest priority is the design capability of the artist(s) and the inherent quality of the artwork(s).
- 8.3.2 Media - all art forms may be considered, subject to any recommendations or requirements set by POSCS staff in coordination with the involved department.
- 8.3.3 Style - artworks of all styles should be considered for the County Public Art Program.
- 8.3.4 Nature - artworks should be appropriate in scale, materials, form and content for the immediate social and physical environments with which they relate.
- 8.3.5 Permanence - consideration should be given to structural and surface integrity, permanence, and protection of the artwork against theft, vandalism, weathering, excessive maintenance and repair costs.
- 8.3.6 Elements of design - consideration should be given to the fact that public art is a genre that is created in a public context and that must be judged by standards that embrace factors other than the aesthetic, including public participation, social and political attitudes, and functional considerations. Public art may also serve to establish focal points; terminate areas; modify, enhance or define specific spaces; establish identity; or address specific issues of urban design.
- 8.3.7 Public liability - artworks should be examined for unsafe conditions or factors that may bear on public liability.

9.0 RESPONSIBILITIES OF SELECTED PUBLIC ARTIST

APPENDIX I

DEFINITIONS.

- 1) Public art: a reflection of how we see the world; it is a part of our public history, part of our evolving culture and our collective memory. It reflects and reveals community values, enhances our environment, transforms a landscape, heightens our awareness, or questions our assumptions. It may be tangible or intangible (permanent or ephemeral?), conventional or unconventional. Situated in public sites, this art is there for everyone, a form of collective community expression that can define “place.” Not all art will appeal to all people. Every public art project is an interactive process between multiple, diverse entities and agencies intended to enhance, rather than limit, the artist’s involvement and the viewer’s response
- 2) Public Art Plan: a prioritized list of public art projects, with budgets and recommended design approach, updated on an annual basis by the Arts Commission in consultation with community groups and the County agencies anticipating capital improvement projects. This plan is to be presented annually to the Board of Supervisors for review and approval.
- 3) Artwork: work in a variety of media produced by visual artists which may include non-visual elements. The public art program should encompass the broadest possible range of expression, media and materials. Works may be permanent or temporary, functional or non-functional.
- 4) Artist Design Services: services by visual artists to develop designs for artworks or other architectural, landscape or urban design elements, either individually or as a member of a project design team.
- 5) Digital Art: An artistic work or practice that uses digital technology as part of the creative or presentation process.
- 6) New Media: All types of contemporary art created, edited, or broadcast by new media technology. This includes works created with computer animation, virtual reality, video games, robotics, biotechnology and 3D printing, as well as what falls under the types of digital art.
